

ERIC BREVIG

Director

Academy Award winner Eric Brevig made his directorial debut on the 2008 boxoffice hit Journey to the Center of the Earth 3-D (the first live-action feature to shoot in digital 3-D), which became the world's highest grossing fully 3D, live-action motion picture. He is currently directing the Warner Bros live-action Christmas 2010 tentpole release Yogi Bear 3D, starring Dan Aykroyd, Justin Timberlake and Anna Faris.

Prior to helming Journey, Brevig served as second unit director and visual effects supervisor on over 25 films, including Men in Black, Pearl Harbor and The Island.

An expert in 3D filmmaking, he has overseen the photography and visual effects for Magic Journeys, Captain Eo and Honey I Shrunk the Audience—all created for continuing exhibition at Disney theme parks around the world.

Brevig was awarded a Special Achievement in Visual Effects Academy Award for his ground-breaking work on Total Recall and has subsequently received nominations for two more Oscars and a BAFTA.
