

Jeff Miller Biography

Jeff Miller is President of Worldwide Post Production and Operations for The Walt Disney Studios.

A 27 year Disney veteran, Jeff has held varied positions during his tenure including: Treasurer, Buena Vista Distribution; Vice President, Manufacturing, Walt Disney Pictures and Television; and Senior Vice President, Character Voices and International Dubbing Production.

Today, Jeff oversees Post Production, Worldwide Technical Services, Disney Character Voices International, Buena Vista Post Production Services and Studio Operations Media Asset Management Services Administration.

Jeff's most recent accomplishments are the design and implementation of The Walt Disney Studios' Operations structure, from post production through worldwide release across all markets and territories. This includes the timely finishing and worldwide delivery of all live action and animated films and DVDs as well as key vendor strategies and negotiations across the Studio's supply chain.

Jeff is also a key advisor guiding the Studio's strategy for transitioning to a secure digital workflow for Post Production. Most recently, Jeff negotiated the industry precedent setting deal to launch the deployment of digital cinema in approximately 5000 screens.

As a founder of Disney Character Voices International, Jeff pioneered Disney's methodology enabling the day and date worldwide release of films and video product. Today, many of Disney's tent pole titles such as Alice in Wonderland release day and date in over 40 countries using the process, organization and technology established by Jeff's worldwide post team.

Jeff received his B.S. from Villanova University, and previously worked for Warner Bros., Inc.

Jeff is also a member of the Board of Trustees for the Providence Saint Joseph Foundation.
